San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 4 .- Yesterday afternoon's session of the Durrant murder trial was taken up by a visit to the Emanuel Baptist Church, the scene of the double

The jury, accompanied by Judge Murphy, District Attorney Barnes and his assistant, Mr. Peixoto; by Gen. Dickinson, the pris, oner, Durrant; by Policeman Russell, who frew the plans of the building, and by a complement of men from the sheriff's office, all went to the church and examined the premises carefully and thorsughly, from the entrance to the pastor's study to the very last floor in the beifry, where the remains of the murdered girl

At the instance of Durrant's counsel, newspaper men were excluded, but informa-tion of what transpired was obtained nevertheless. Policeman Russell led the way, and under Judge Murphy's directions, his information as to the location of the different parts of the building were pur-

You must say: This is claimed to be the library: this is claimed to be the closet: this s claimed to be thus and so," the court had instructed him, not once, but many times, before the journey was begun. Mr. Russell led first to the gateway at the side of the church; thence to the pastor's study. From here they returned to the street and went into the church by the main entrance "WHAT IT IS CLAIMED."

All passed inside of what was "claimed to be" Emanuel Baptist Church—that is, all but the newspaper men-and inspected the building throughout until late in the afternoon. But, of course, what transpired while the press men were without was not kept a secret.

It was learned, for instance, that Judge Murphy was greatly concerned while the jury were climbing the rickety stairs into the belfry, lest one of them should fall and receive an injury that would postpone the

It was learned that Mr. Russell slipped a couple of times on his "claims" and that he so far forgot himself as to remark "This beiltry—this here beiltry—is claimed to be the beifry."

And, again, with the library, he said: "This library is claimed to be the library." Nothing of importance occurred inside of the church. Judge Murphy had cautioned the jury to use their eyes only, and keep their mouths closed and this injunction, it seems, was strictly followed.

Throughout the entire inspection of the premises Durrant remained the same tood in the little room in the belfry and saw the spot pointed out where the flend had left his strangled victim withou

First Intimation of Trouble Came When Notices Were Posted Saying the Europeans Wanted to Steal Small Children to Extract Oil From Them-Thrilling Escapes-

Philadelphia, Sept. 4 .- A letter has been received by the Rev. F. S. Dobbins, in charge of the Baptist Missionary Board in this city, from the Rev. W. M. Upcraft at Hankow,

He also sent a newspaper called the "Celestial Empire," published in Shanghai, which contains a full account of the recent riots in the Szechuan province, which caused the entire suspension of the work of the West China mission.

Mr. Upcraft is in charge of the mission there, a number of whose workers are from this city. In his letter Mr. Upcraft states that the trouble began in Chenglu, the capital of the province, on May 28. Three Protestant missionary societies are located there. The first warping of the trouble was the posting of a placard in severa places of the city, reading as follows:
"Notice is hereby given that at present

foreign barbarians are hiring evil charac ters to steal small children that they may extract oil from them for their use have a female servant named Li, who has personally seen this done. I therefore exhort you good people not to allow your chil-dren to go out. I hope you will act in accordance with this

This was soon followed by an attack by mob on the Canadian Methodist mission, which was destroyed. The stations of the Baptist Missionary Union in Szechuan were at Sulchaufu, Kiating and Yachau. The first trouble was at Kiating, which was nearest to Chentu, where the riots be-

On that day the streets were full of people, who at first seemed peaceable, but be-came more aggressive and began to loot the mission houses. A magistrate of Yachau aided the missionaries to escape down the river on a raft. A guard of soldiers was sent with them. They had trouble at several places on the river, but went safely past, and the missionaries all finally reached Suichaufu on Sunday, June 9. Mr. Beaman, of the Kiating mission, who id remained behind in a small boat, hopus to be of service of Yachau friends who experience. During the night he was at tacked by a band of robbers, who stripped him of everything he had, clothes and all. When the robbers came on his boat belov Suichaufu he jumped overboard and dived under the boat, remaining hid for some time. The robbers prodded the water with spears to find him, and he was at last drawn ack on the boat. His life appeared in numinent danger and several wished to kill him, but the leader of the gang was satisfied when he found the money and uan got away. MANY THRILLING ESCAPES After many of the thrilling escapes, the party, consisting of Mr. Hill, his wife and boy, Miss Bliss, Mr. Salquist, Mr. Viking, his wife and baby, and Mr. Upcraft, arrived at Hankow.

In speaking of their position, Mr. Up-craft says:

Delayed by wind and rain, and in constant fear of wind and rain, and in constant fear of destruction from swirling whirlpools and angry rapids. Our women were true heroines. They stood the trial very nobly. Aftter the long strain reaction must set in.
"While our own experience with the Chinese officials has left no ground for complaint, in other places it is different.

Many think that our present degraded viceroy is at the bottom of the whole thing. It was a systematic scheme to free the province of foreigners."

WRONGLY MARKED BONDS the first witness.

He Sent the Package Labeled $1,000 When It Really Contained $200,000. Complications Are Likely to Follow an Official Investigation of the Matter.

The Register of the Treasury has received a package through the United States Express Company, addressed to the Honorable Register of the U. S. Treasury, Washington, D. C. In the upper right-hand corner of the envelope containing the package was written, "Bonds; value, $1,000."

In the upper left-hand corner appeared the following: "Return in ten days to August T. Koerner, treasurer, St. Paul, Minn." Diagonally across the envelope was written in lead pencil: "Charges, 75 cents." CONTAINED A SURPRISE.

The register was astonished when he op-ned the package to find that Mr. Koerner had inclosed bonds to the value of $200,-000. By marking the package: "Value One Thousand Dollars," he secured their transmission to Washington for 75 cents, whereas if he had put the true value on the package the charge would have been $100.

The register of the Treasury immediate ly reported the matter to the agents of the United States Express Company, and it is likely that officials of that company will call upon the State of Minnesota to make good the difference between the amount charged and the value for $200,000.

Should the State officials refuse to pay this difference it is probable that they will have a great deal of trouble in sending by express in future. Mr. Koerner is State treasurer of Min ta, and is supposed to have been actuated by a spirit of economy. KIRKLAND REPRIMANDED.

Mr. George C. McIntire, aged sixty-two ears, was instantly killed by a southbound Royal Blue Line express on the Baltimore & Onio Railroad at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the crossing near his home in Langdon.

Mr. McIntire, as told in to-day's Morning Times, was standing with some friends on the platform at the crossing, waiting for the out-ging accommodation to pass. The express happened to be late, but the group on the platform supposed it had passed, and after the accommodation moved away Mr. McIntire stepped upon the track.
